Peter Giles, President
The Tech Museum of Innovation
145 W. San Carlos Street
San Jose, CA 95113

Dear Mr. Giles,

We have gathered today at the site of the future Tech Museum of Innovation to ask for the inclusion of items that help to round out the story of the development of high technology in Silicon Valley and the Southwest.

The stated mission of the Tech Museum of Innovation reads as follows:

The Tech Museum of Innovation is an educational resource established to engage people of all ages and backgrounds in exploring and experiencing technologies affecting their lives, and to inspire the young to become innovators in the technologies of the future.

The information you provide to young people will certainly inspire them and shape the future of our world. The museum will be a celebration of how technology has changed all of our lives. We all agree on this point. But what information do we include? We have traveled to the birthplace of the industry today to request that your mission statement include the following goal.

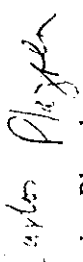

The museum will tell the whole story of high-tech development, good and bad, including past and present environmental negative impacts in order to create a more responsible industry that puts the health of employees, neighbors and the natural environment above the bottom line.

Please respond to offices in the boxes checked above

We have enclosed items that we would like to see included in the new Tech Museum of innovation. We offer them in a spirit of cooperation and commitment to the objective truth - believing our children deserve no less.

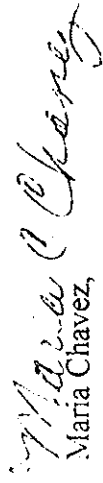

Respectfully,

Sylvia Ledesma,
