

Intel spending $100 million to pitch Pentium II

Reuters
(9/15/97)

Even though almost every personal computer maker has to buy computer chips from Intel to make their machines work, Intel and its partners have spend more than $2billion in the past four years promoting the Pentium brand.